

M.I.L.C.6

Madison Insurgent Linguistics Conspiracy*

Call for Abstracts: Submit!

Saturday, March 1, 2003, 8:00 p.m.

- Deadline for abstract submission: Feb. 18, 2003
- Email submissions (in text, rtf, Word, etc.) to jsalmons@wisc.edu.
- MILC6 will be held at 127 S. Brittingham Place (257-1771).

Come as your favorite linguistic concept!

Distinguished Plenary Speaker:
"Dr." Amy Dahlstrom
University of Chicago
TITLE TBA

Reality check from the organizing committee: You can't equal the brilliance of the papers at previous MILCs, but we will still accept your lowly attempt at an abstract.

WARNING! As this year's name should underscore, this is an invitation to a party. It ain't no stinking "conference," "workshop," "symposium" or such with professional, political or other social value. Trust us on this. It is a party, in the non-political sense, with linguists (and selected honorary "linguists for the evening"). We don't read papers, bring handouts, or even talk shop, although we do use language. The idea is to write a funny abstract about language but it doesn't have to have any real linguistics in it. We'll then print them in the "program", which is utterly fake.

*Previously known as the Madison Informal Linguistics Conference, Madison Informal Linguistics Colloquium, Madison Informal Linguistics Consortium, Madison Informal Linguistics.Com.